CHAPTER V.

INTESTATE SUCCESSION.

NOTE.—The distribution of the self-acquired and separate property of an intestate shall be according to the following rules :—

SUCCESSION TO AN INTESTATE MALE.

12. When a male dies intestate, the next of kin in the order set forth below shall be entitled to succeed to the self-acquired and separate property left undisposed of by him at his death.

GROUPS OF HEIRS.

(1) Widow or widows, sons and daughters and the lineal descendants of such sons or daughters as shall have predeceased the intestate.

(a) On the death of a male leaving him surviving widow or widows and also children, the lineal descendants of deceased children, or all, they shall take the whole of the self-acquired and separate property left undisposed of by him at his death ; in the absence of the widow, the children and the lineal descendants of deceased children shall take the whole, and in the absence of the widow and children, the lineal descendants of deceased children shall take the whole.

The widow or widows, if there are more than one, shall each be entitled to a share equal to that of a son or daughter.

Sons and daughters shall take the property in equal shares, provided that if a son or daughter shall have predeceased the intestate, the lineal descendants of such son or daughter shall take the share which such son or daughter would have taken had he or she survived the intestate.

(b) Grand-children shall take in equal shares what their father or mother would have taken had he or she survived the intestate. In like manner, the property shall go to the surviving lineal descendants of the intestate, where they are all in the degree of great grand-children to him or in a more remote degree.

(c) In the absence of children and lineal descendants of how-low-so-ever a degree, a widow shall be entitled to a third of the self-acquired and separate property of the deceased ; the remaining two-thirds shall in such cases, devolve on the father and the mother in equal shares ; in the absence of the father or mother, the widow shall get an equal share with that of the surviving parent, in the absence of both father and the mother, the childless widow shall get the whole.
